Igloo Sleepover Guidelines

Scope:

The purpose of these Guidelines is to distinguish an igloo sleepover from an overnight tour. This applies if an igloo is built within 20m of the Chalet. No prior approval from the Wardens is required should an igloo meet the following requirements.

Content:

Prior to sleeping in the igloo:

- The igloo must be assessed by the Party Leader or suitably qualified person for ventilation
- The sleepover plan must be written out on a "trip intention form", detailing what will be used to keep people warm throughout the night and checking for snow collapse
- The weather be checked – there is to be no sleeping in an igloo during a severe weather warning
- The igloo must be marked so that it isn't hit by on skidoos

Minimum gear requirements per person:

- Sleeping mat
- Sleeping bag
- Whistle
- Head torch

Minimum gear per igloo (at all times):

- Radio
- Snow shovels

The minimum number of people in an igloo sleepover is 2.

Other notes:

BRC's Safety Guidelines Book

- 2 deep child safe policy still applies
- Over 18 weeks – no alcohol is allowed to be consumed by the entire party whilst an igloo sleepover is occurring
- The reasoning behind the distance from the Chalet being specified is:
 - To distinguish it from a general overnight snow camping activity
 - To allow leaders to check on the party without the necessity to have a party of 4
